

Problem Statement:

Procrastination is leading to frequent missed deadlines and a backlog of tasks. Effective strategies need to be implemented to improve time management and meet deadlines consistently.

Details:

This problem statement was created by focusing on procrastination as a common issue affecting student's productivity. Many people struggle to meet deadlines due to delaying important tasks or schoolwork. The impact of procrastination often leads to increased stress and an overload of work. The statement highlights the need for practical strategies to improve time management. The aim is to encourage a shift towards more consistent and efficient work completion.